In Preparation

For ADS Users:

ADS website will be discontinued in favor of SciX on Nov. 15, see arXiv:2609.18091 (preliminary) for details

Never Used ADS?

Try modules 2–4 of Science Explorer (SciX): Open Science Discovery Engine for some basics

astrophysics data system

Using Science Explorer to Accelerate Your Research

Jennifer Lynn Bartlett
Center for Astrophysics | Harvard & Smithsonian
help@scixplorer.org
22 September 2026

CENTER FOR ASTROPHYSICS HARVARD & SMITHSONIAN

SciX

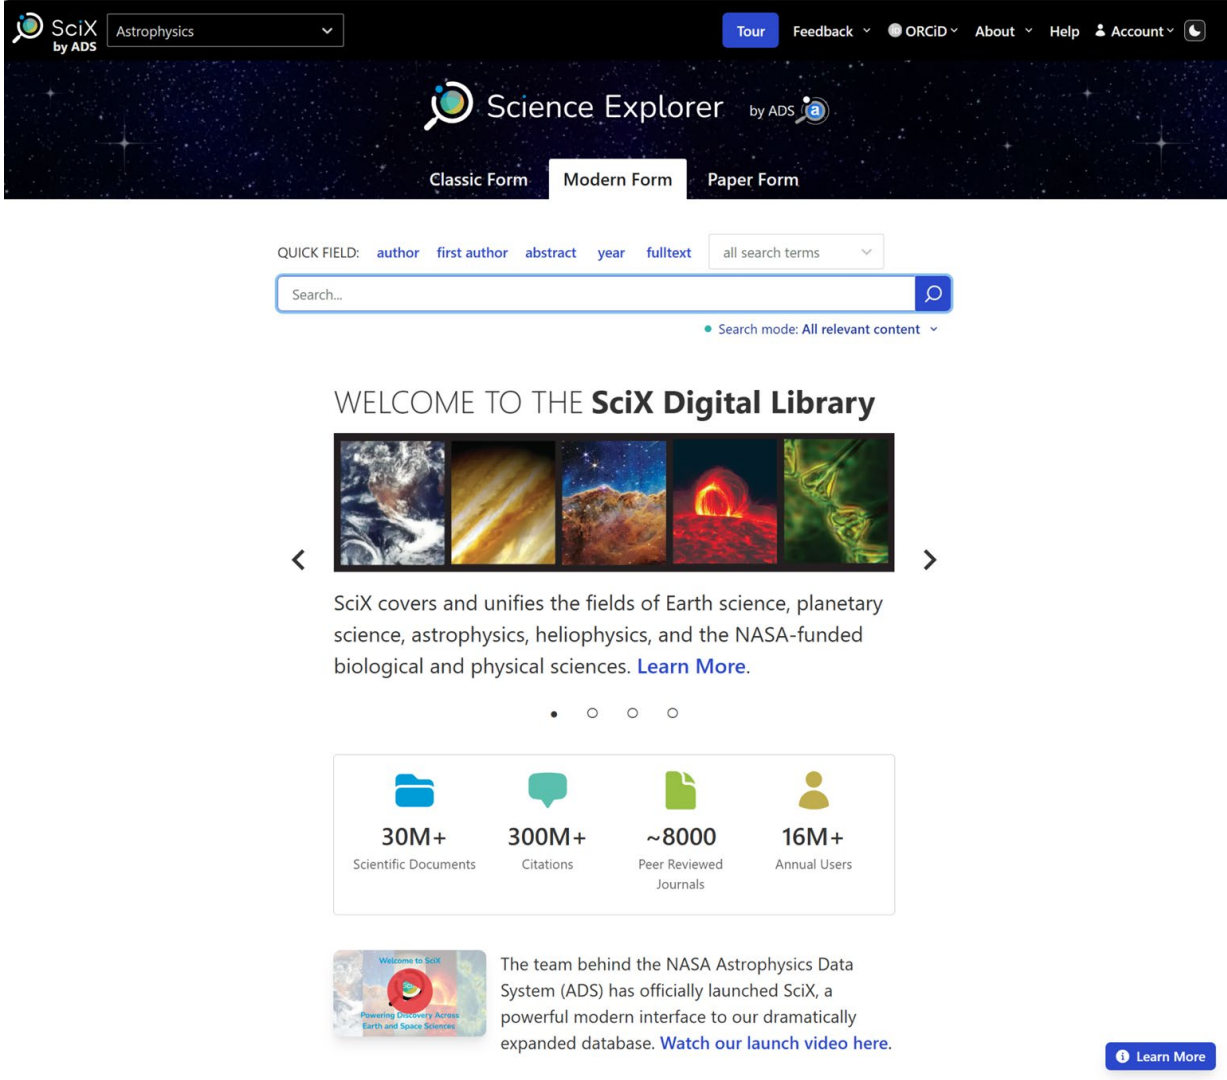
NASA Partner

This work is openly licensed via CC BY 4.0.

A Little About You?

1. Have you used ADS or SciX previously?
2. What is your primary topic of research?

Demo



SciX by ADS
Astrophysics
Tour
Feedback
ORCiD
About
Help
Account
Science Explorer
by ADS
Classic Form
Modern Form
Paper Form
QUICK FIELD: author
first author abstract year fulltext
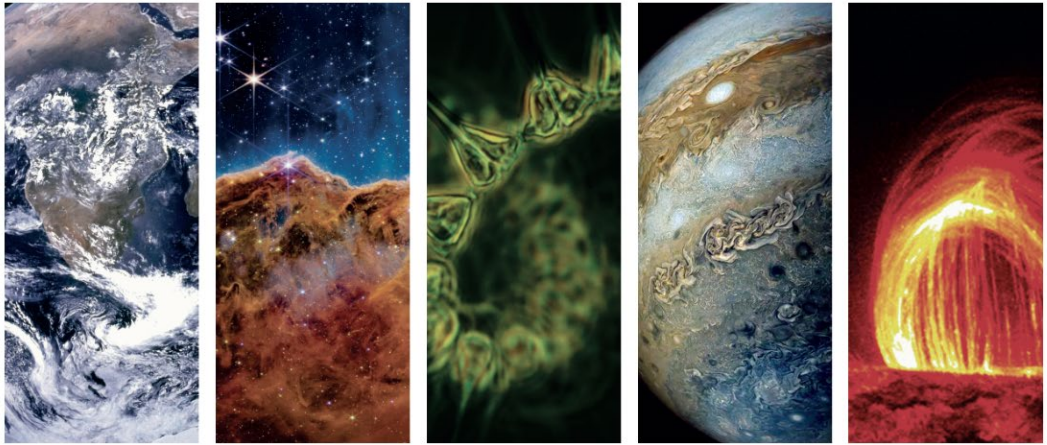
all search terms
Search...
Search mode: All relevant content
WELCOME TO THE SciX Digital Library
SciX covers and unifies the fields of Earth science, planetary science, astrophysics, heliophysics, and the NASA-funded biological and physical sciences. Learn More.
30M+
Scientific Documents
300M+
Citations
~8000
Peer Reviewed Journals
16M+
Annual Users
Welcome to SciX
Powering Discovery Across Earth and Space Sciences
The team behind the NASA Astrophysics Data System (ADS) has officially launched SciX, a powerful modern interface to our dramatically expanded database. Watch our launch video here.
Learn More

more resources

SciX

[www.SciXplorer.org]



Thank you!

Jennifer Lynn Bartlett
(ADS/SciX Astrophysics Project Scientist)
jennifer.bartlett@cfa.harvard.edu @BartlettAstro

Science Explorer

Accelerating the discovery of NASA Science.