
Black holes are weird! A black hole is an object in space with such strong gravity that not even light can escape it — and light is the fastest thing we know of.