
Black holes mainly come in two sizes. The stellar-mass ones have the mass of 5 to 100 Suns squished together. The supermassive ones have the mass of millions or billions of Suns.