

Baker, Daniel N.

Daniel Baker is a space scientist and the director of the Laboratory for Atmospheric and Space Physics at the University of Colorado in Boulder. His research focuses on how the charged gas that fills space – plasma – behaves in magnetospheres, that is, the magnetic fields around Earth and other planets.